You cannot serve both

"No servant can serve two masters. He will either hate one and love the other, or be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and mammon."

Jesus is direct. You cannot serve both. Many of us try hard though. Jesus knew that the things of this world would try constantly to win our hearts – and often succeed. He knew that we would desire security and comfort and things that would bring us pleasure. What the world can offer us can seem very appealing in the moment. Compared to the gain of eternal joy found in the saving mercy of Jesus, the choice should be clear. Which gain are you pursuing most? You cannot serve both. Which is your higher desire?

Petition:

That we may make Jesus and the pursuit of heaven our highest desire, we pray...
