Gospel Reflection from the Seasonal Missalette

October 5th
27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Destruction. Violence. Strife. Clamorous discord. The words of Habakkuk from around 600 BCE sound as though they could have been written in our era. What can be done? The Lord answered Habakkuk, assuring him that “the just one, because of [their] faith, shall live” (2:4). Our faith in God is key, allowing us, like the Israelites of the first reading, to see past the calamities around us. Faith, even the size of a tiny mustard seed, can allow us to do great things. If faith can uproot a mulberry, a tree with an extensive root system, it can also uproot prejudice, racism, sexism, greed, hate, and all the societal evils with such twisted roots that they affect our individual attitudes and actions each day even though we cannot see them. Faith, therefore, enables us to have hope—to be pilgrims of hope—to reveal victories over evils, meaning in suffering, salvation from sin. We do this when we embrace the mission Jesus left his disciples, preaching the gospel in word and deed, serving those in need, and bearing our share of hardships, as Saint Paul encouraged Timothy to continue to do. As Jesus tells his disciples in the Gospel, this is what we are obliged to do. As a pilgrim of hope, how do you offer hope to those discouraged or victimized by the evils and miseries of our era?
